The new version of the Riding on Empty Cycle Stations Project exhibition was shown at the London Festival of Architecture in June 2010. This version of the exhibition was the most developed so far (earlier versions having been shown in 2008 and early 2009) featuring new architectural and design models, banners and other information as well as exhibits from related design, cycle and eco-fashion being included for the first time. Riding on Empty LFA also featured talks by architect Alex de Rijke, from dRMM, James Marriott from PLATFORM, Tom Bogdanowicz from the London

Cycling Campaign, and professor John Wood from the MetaDesign group at Goldsmiths College of Art, along with a series of cycle-rides and the showing of cycle related films such as Bicycle Thieves.
